String of nature pearls

Whale watching capital – Most powerful waterfall - World renowned nature pearls

Húsavík is the largest town in Þingeyjarsýsla, a prosperous community by the eastern side of Skjálfandi bay. There are many good reasons why Húsavík is such a popular place to visit: an attractive and scenic natural environment, diverse recreation options, whale watching and proximity to the most highly regarded nature pearls of the region.

A National Park was established in Jökulsárgljúfur canyons and the surrounding area in 1973. When Vatnajökull National Park was established in 2008, Jökulsárgljúfur became a part of it. For thousands of years, Jökulsá á Fjöllum, one of Iceland's largest rivers, has continued to flow from under the glacier Vatnajökull and wound its way through a landscape of diverse aspects for a distance of about 200 km until merging with the sea in Öxarfjörður bay. On its long journey, the river has carved numerous channels into the highland bedrock and to the west of Hólsfjöll it cascades from a tall rocky ledge, forming the huge waterfall Dettifoss, plunging into, magnificent canyons which extend all the way down to lowland. Jökulsárgljúfur (canyons), are approximately 25 km long, half a kilometer wide and in several locations they extend to a depth of over 100 meters.

The tour starts from Mývatn area and we drive directly to Húsavík where we make a good stop. From there we drive along Tjörnes peninsula to Kelduhverfi with a couple of short stops. Ásbyrgi is undoubtedly one of Iceland's most beloved nature pearls. There is a visitor centre for the national park. From Ásbyrgi we follow the canyon (Jökulsárgljúfur) and see phenomena of nature; canyons, gullies, and rock formations of diverse shapes and sizes. At the south end of the canyons we visit Dettifoss which is Iceland's greatest and most majestic waterfall. It is also rated as Europe's most powerful waterfall, based on its magnitude. From Dettifoss we drive until we get the main road which we follow to Mývatn area. In good weather we can have a great view into the highland.

FS-032*Like the moon - Askja

Travel through the wilderness of Iceland!

A full day of experiences through the amazing interior Highlands to the Askja volcano. Something that you have to see and feel to understand this lunar-like landscape. A visit to the Askja area is a mystical experience. The pure mountain air, contrasting colors and vastness provide an unforgettable experience. Askja is a caldera in Dyngjufjöll (mountains) in east-central Iceland. The landscape is formed by eruptions through ages and the area is unique in many ways. Your tour will be like visiting another planet. This part of Iceland was the location for training before the first travel to the moon. Relive this experience.

Our aim is to make professional, educational, informative and memorable trips for small or bigger groups of clients. We are flexible and ready to adjust to your personal needs and circumstances.
